DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 12 recites the limitation "said antiseptic agent" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 7, 10-11, 21-22, 25-26 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hanes et al (US Pat# 5,855,913).

Hanes discloses particles for incorporating surfactants for pulmonary drug delivery that includes a reservoir comprising a polymer matrix and an antimicrobial agent disposed within the polymer matrix. The polymer matrix is timed release (long-term) for administration of the antimicrobial agent (antibiotic or antiseptic) from the polymer matrix (7:22-25). A biosurfactant (surfactin) is imbibed or ionically or covalently attached to an outer surface of the reservoir (see 5:16-23). The method of constructing steps are considered inherent since those steps must be carried out in order to make the particles.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9, 12 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hanes.

Hanes meets the claim limitations as described above but fails to the antimicrobial agent being selected from the agents in claim 9 or iodine.

At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to use any of the above agents since they are equivalents in the art. The motivation would have been to enhance the ability of the device to prevent infection.

Claims 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hanes.

Hanes meets the claim limitations as described above but fails to disclose the method step of co-casting or co-extruding the agent with the polymer.

At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to utilize the method steps of co-casting or co-extruding since these are equivalent processing steps in the art. The motivation for making the substitution would have been in order to have alternative processing capabilities.

Claims 5-6 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hanes in view of Vacheethasane.

Hanes meets the claim limitations as described above but fails to have a surfactant that is a surfactant polymer.

Vacheethasane discloses surfactant polymers designed to suppress bacterial adhesion on biomaterials. The surfactant polymers include a polymer as claimed in claim 6.

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to incorporate the surfactant polymer of Vacheethasane into the invention of Hanes to provide an outer surface with enhanced ability to prevent bacterial adhesion.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 15-20 are allowed.

Claims 8 and 13-14 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US Pat#s 5,344,411; 5,626,862; 5,874,064; 5,985,309; 5,156,164; and RE37,053 all disclose analogous inventions in the art.
